

#SBI62 Day 1

- ◆ Powerful start at the Women & Gender Constituency morning caucus
- ◆ Following negotiations and engaging on visa barriers ahead of COP30
- ◆ Gender workshop participation in-person and virtually
- ◆ Insightful one-on-one orientation with UN Women on negotiation tracks

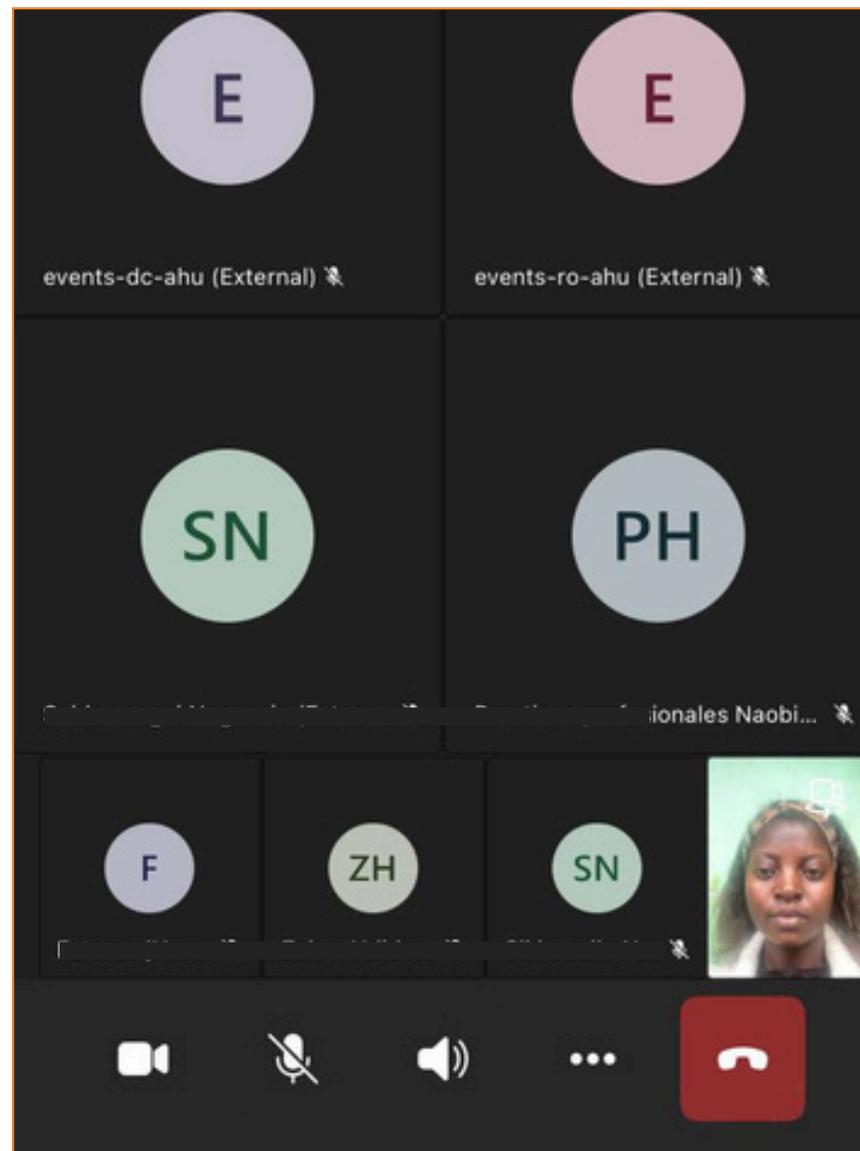

WGC Morning Caucus

We began the day with the Women & Gender Constituency (WGC) morning caucus – a powerful space for feminist voices to align strategies, share updates, and shape the gender agenda at SB62.

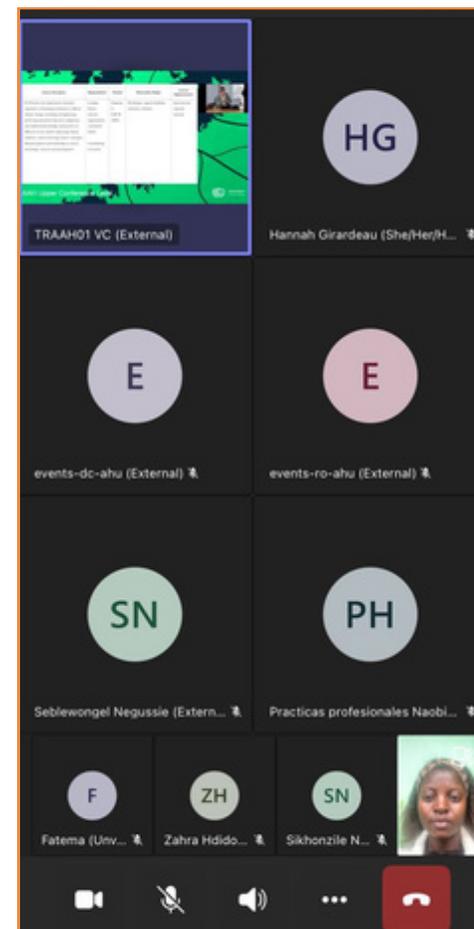

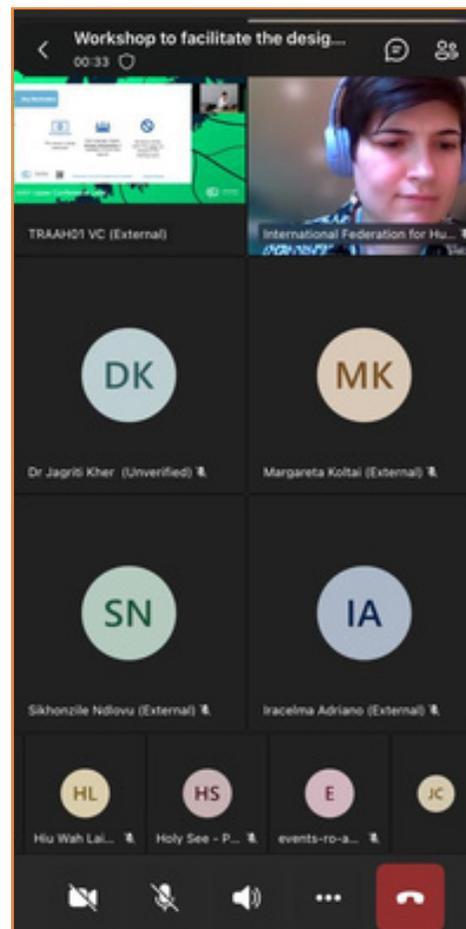

Engaging on COP30 & Visa Access

With heated negotiations underway ahead of COP30, we met with delegations to spotlight the challenges of visa access for African youth and feminist advocates, pushing for inclusive participation.

Gender Workshop (Virtual & In-Person)

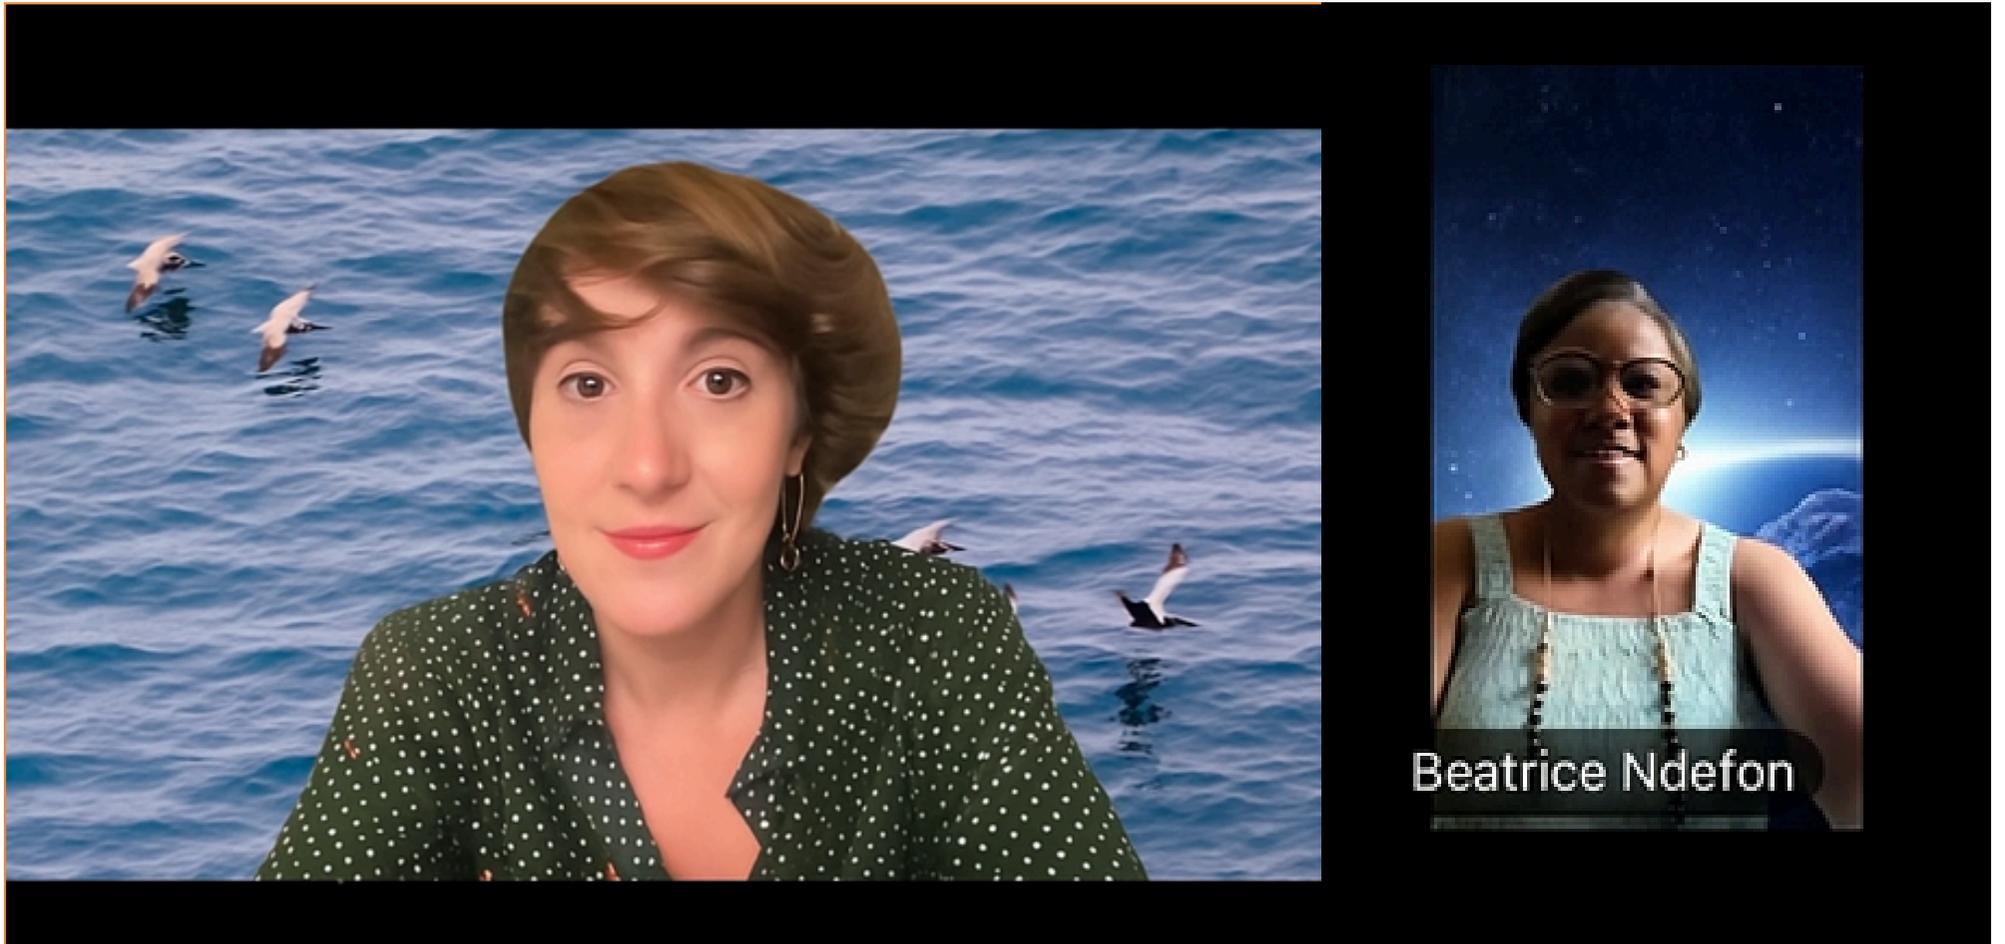

Pushing for accessibility – distance is not a barrier to the active engagement of women and girls.

From Cameroon to Bonn, we actively engaged in the Gender Workshop, deepening our analysis of how gender, climate justice, and policy intersect in the UNFCCC process.

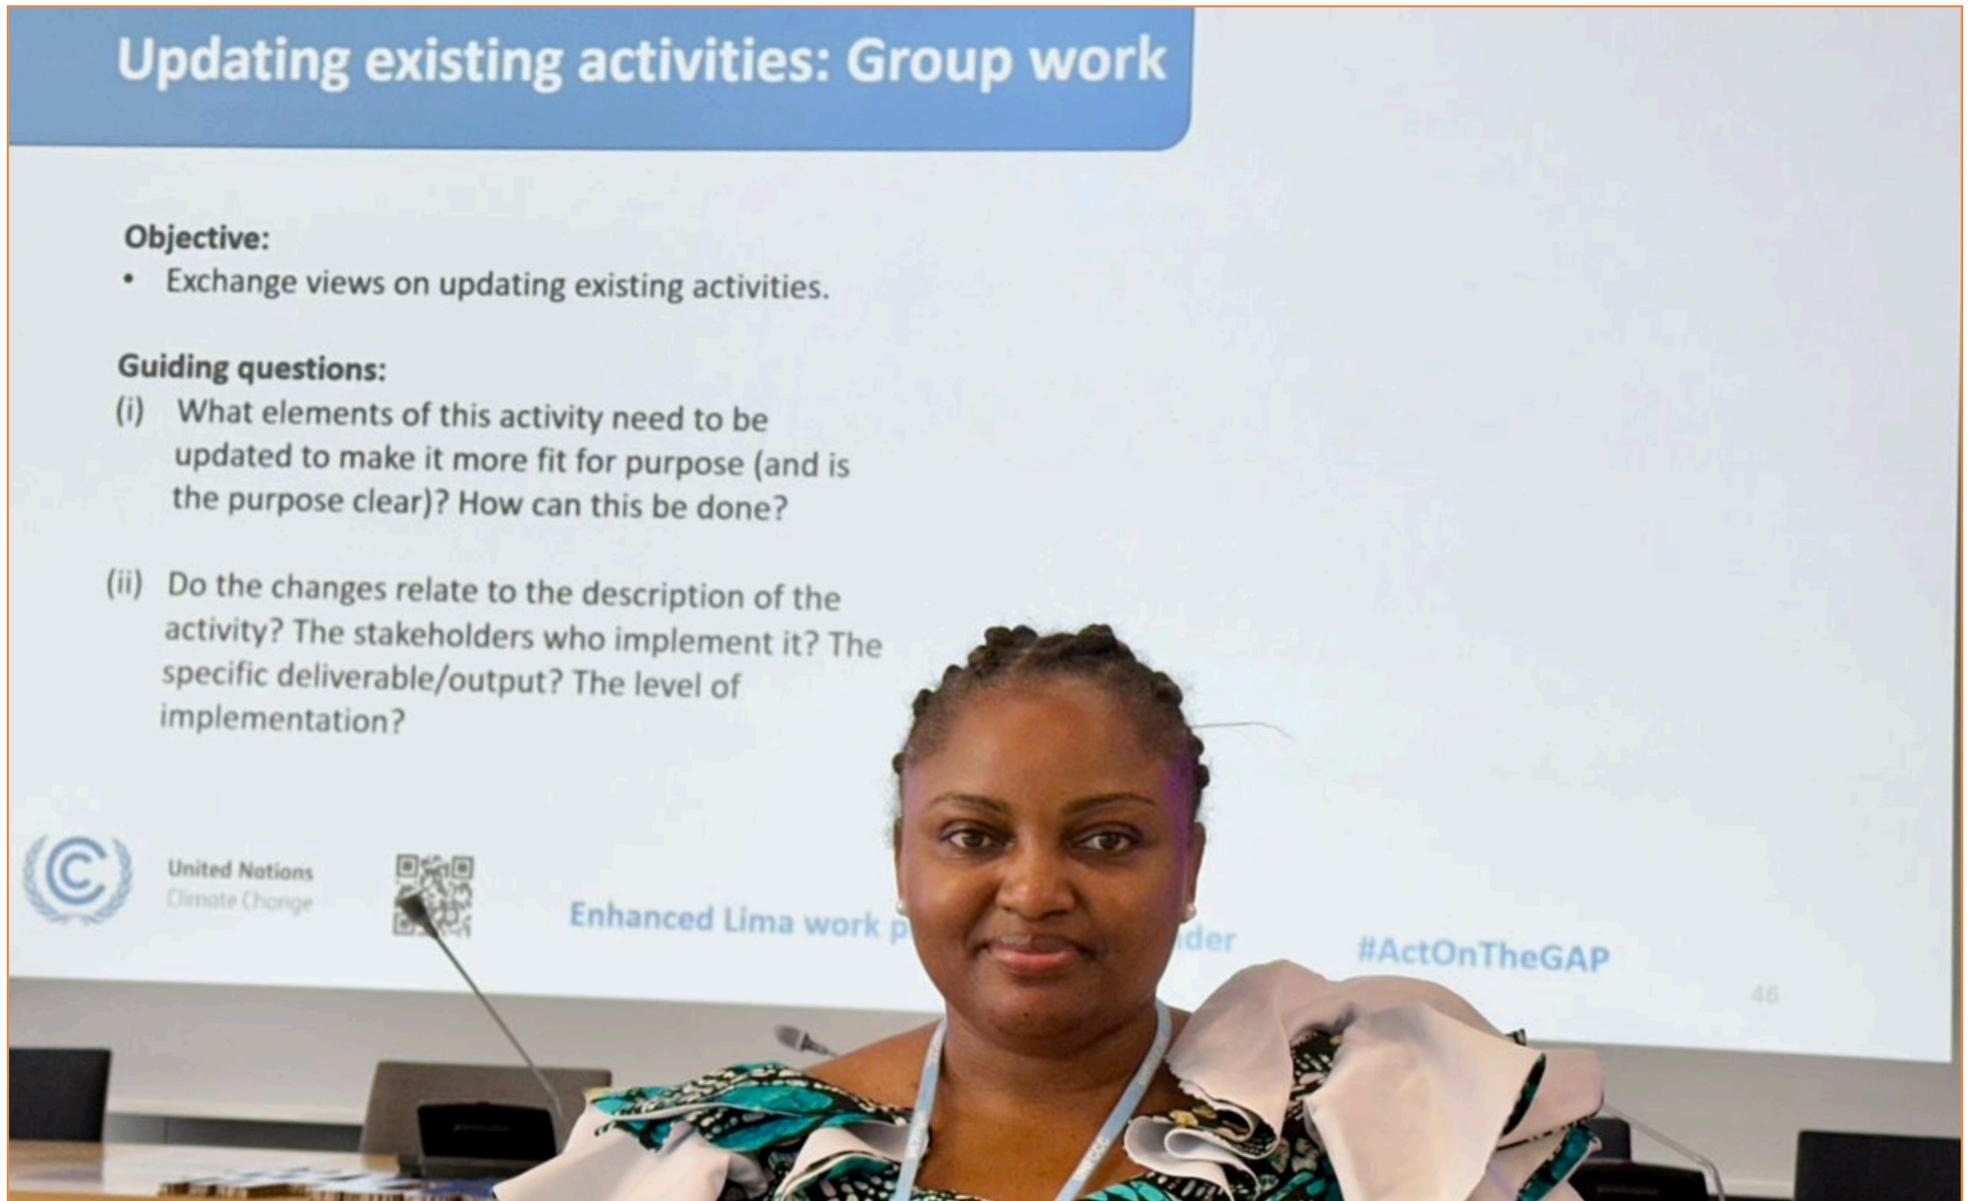

Orientation with UN Women

In a meaningful one-on-one session, we learned from UN Women about the different negotiation tracks, understanding both the technical and political layers influencing global outcomes.

Collaboration & Strategy

There was the opportunity to strengthen collaboration between our team and experts, building trust, refining advocacy strategies, and aligning on shared feminist priorities.

Virtual Engagement from Cameroon

While some of us are in Bonn, others will continue to join virtually from Cameroon for this workshop, ensuring that voices from across our network shape our advocacy in real time, despite physical borders.

See You on #Day2